

Volunteers Wanted for a Research Study of Childhood Cavities

COHRA2 Study Center for Oral Health Research in Appalachia

Our dental study is recruiting pregnant women for an important oral health study on childhood cavities. This study involves several phone interviews and visits for you and your baby. Research participants will receive compensation at each visit. If you complete all study procedures, you will receive $500.00 by the end of the study.

We are looking for participants who are:

- In the first or second trimester of pregnancy
- Caucasian
- At least 18 years of age
- Healthy enough to have a dental exam

For more information about the COHRA2 Study and to see if you qualify, please contact study coordinators:

- Andrea Warzynski 412-648-1910
- Jayme Zovko 412-624-3299

Or
Call (or text) the COHRA2
Study Cell Phone at 412-915-9651

University of Pittsburgh

